Crown Partners Offers SharePoint Integration Solution

Crown is first to offer one solution that both connects and migrates

DAYTON, Ohio – August 1, 2008 In response to rising demand for more integrated content management and collaboration platforms, Crown Partners has developed Portico for the SharePoint platform. Portico is an integration solution that can either provide viewing and manipulation of all third-party content in the SharePoint interface or migrate all content from third party systems into the SharePoint server. Portico is the first integration solution that offers both of these features, viewing content or moving content. It is fully customizable to the customer's environment and can interact with systems like EMC Documentum, eRoom, NTSF(disk) or OpenText/LiveLink.

“The most innovative part of Portico is that regular users can plan, customize and execute content movements and viewings,” said Crown SharePoint practice Director Ed Alexander. “The non-technical knowledge worker, not IT, can decide what to move, when, where and for whom. Portico lets organization's leverage all of their content management and collaborative investments through the familiar interface of Microsoft SharePoint.”

Crown Partners also has two governance solutions for Microsoft SharePoint, Profiler and Enforcer. Crown will continue to innovate on the SharePoint platform and plans to develop more solutions and products in the coming months.
